in bileue, ȝyuynge glorie to God, witynge 21
moost fulli that what euere thingis God hath bihiȝt, he is myȝti also to do.
Therfor it was arettid to hym to riȝt- 22

15 as gilt, so the ȝifte; for if thorouȝ the gilt of oon manye ben deed, myche more the grace of God and the ȝifte in the[f] grace of o man Jhesu Crist hath aboundid[g] in to many men. And not 16 as bi o synne, so bi the ȝifte; for the doom of oon in to condempnacioun, but grace[h] of many giltis in to iustificacioun.
17 For if in the gilt of oon deth regnede[i] thorouȝ oon, myche more men[k] that takyn[l] plente of grace, and of ȝyuyng, and of riȝtwisnesse, schulen regne in lijf bi oon Jhesu Crist. Therfor as bi sothe we ben vnbounden fro the lawe of deeth, in the[a] which we weren holde, so that we serue in newenesse of spirit, and 7 not in oldnesse of lettre. What therfore schulen we seie? The lawe is synne?

Fer be it. But I knew not synne, no but by lawe[aa]; forwhi I wiste not coueitynge
for[b] to be[c] synne, 'no but[d] the lawe seide, 8 Thou schalt not coueite. Forsothe occa-

I do 'the ilke[m] yuel thing that I hate.
16 Forsoth if I do that thing that[n] I wole not, I consente to the lawe, for[o] it is good.
17 Now sothely I worche not[p] now, but that[q]

But now we ben vnboundun fro the 6
lawe of deth, in which we weren holdun,
so that we seruen in newnesse of spirit, therfor schulen we seie? The lawe is synne? God forbede. But Y knew not synne, but bi lawe; for Y wiste not that coueitynge was synne, but for the

And thoru3 occasioun takun, synne bi 8
the maundement[v] hath wrou3t in me al coueytise; for withouten the lawe, synne comaundement that was to lijf, was foundun to[x] me, to be to[y] deth. For 11 synne, thorou3 occasioun takun bi the

And thei that 8 ben in fleisch, moun not plese to God. But ȝe ben not in fleisch, but in spirit; 9 if netheles the spirit of God dwellith in ȝou. But if ony[m] hath not the spirit of Crist, this is not his. For if Crist is in 10 ȝou, the bodi is deed for synne, but the spirit lyueth for iustefiyng. And if the 11 spirit of hym that reiside Jhesu Crist fro deth dwellith in ȝou, he that reiside Jhesu Crist fro deth, shal quykene also ȝoure deedli bodies, for the spirit of hym that dwellith in ȝou. Therfor, britheren, 12 we ben dettouris, not to the flesch, that we lyuen aftir the flesch. Prolog to the firste Corinthies[a].

CORINTHIES ben men of Achaye, and thes also of the[b] apostelis hadden herd the word of treuthe, and thei weren ouerturned in many maneris of false apostelis; summe of wordy eloquence of philosophie, summe to the secte of Jewis lawe yledd[c]. Thes reuoketh the apostle to the trewe and gospels wysdom, writynge to hem fro Effecie, by Tymothe, his disciple.

Here endith the prolog, and bigynneth the epistele[d].

Here biginnith the prologe of Jerom on Corinthis[a].

CORINTHIES ben[b] of Acaye, and thei[c] in lijk maner herden of the postle[d] the word of treuthe, and weren peruertid in many maneres of false apostlis. Summe weren peruertid of eloquence of filosofie ful of wordis, othere men[e] weren led in to the sect of the[f] lawe of Jewis, that is, to holde it nedeful with the gospel. The apostle[g] 'clepith aȝen[h] these Corynthies to very[i] feith and wisdom of the gospel, 'and writith[k] to hem fro Efesie, bi Tymothe, his disciple.

18 cros of Crist be not voydid awey. For the word of the cros[g] is folye sothli to 'men perischinge[h]; forsoth to hem that ben maad saaf, that is to seye, to vs, it is 19 the vertu of God. Sothli[i] it is writun, I schal lese the wysdom of wyse men, and I schal reproue the prudence of prudent 20 men. Where is the wyse man? where is the writere[k], 'or man of lawe[l]? where is the purchasour of this[ll] world? Wher
God hath not maad the wysdom of this[ll] 21 world foltisch[m], 'or fool[n]. Forwhi for in the wysdom of God the world knew not God by wysdom, it pleside[o] to God for[p] to make 'men saaf[q] bileuyng, by the 22 folie of prechinge. For and Jewis seken 23 signes, and Greekis seken wisdom; forsoth[r] we prechen Crist crucified, to Jewis
sothli sclaundre[s], to hethene men 'forsoth 24 foly[t]; forsoth[u] to 'hem clepid[v], Jewis[w] and Greekis[x], Crist[y] the vertu of God, and 25 the wysdom of God. For[z] that that is foly thing of God[a], is wyser than men;
and that that is syk[b] thing, 'or freel[c], of 26 God[d], is strenger than men. Forsoth[e] se 3e 3oure[f] clepinge, britheren[g]; for not manye wyse men aftir the fleisch, not 27 many my3ty, not many noble. But God chees tho thingis that ben foltysch[h] of the[i] 28 world, that he confounde wyse men; and God chees the syke thingis, 'or freel[k], of the world, that he confounde the stronge[m] thingis; and God chees the vnnoble thingis and dispisable thingis[n] of the world, and tho[o] thingis that ben not[p], that he schulde 29 distroye tho thingis that ben[q]; that ech fleisch[r], 'or man[s], 'glorie not[t] in his[u] si3t.
30 Forsoth of him 3e ben in Crist Jhesu, the[v]
which is maad to vs wysdom and ri3twys-31 nesse, and hoolynesse, and a3enbying; that, ben maad saaf[k], that is to seie, to vs, it is the vertu of God. For it is writun, 19
Y schal distruye the wisdom of wise men, and Y schal reproue the prudence of prudent men. Where is the wise 20 man? where is the wise lawiere?
where is the[l] purchasour of this world?
Whether God hath not maad the wisdom of this world fonned? For the 21 world in wisdom of God knewe not God bi wisdom, it pleside to God, bi foli of prechyng, 'to maken[m] hem saaf that bileueden. For Jewis seken signes, and 22
Grekis seken wisdom; but we prechen 23 Crist crucified, to[n] Jewis sclaundre, and to[o] hethene men foli; but to tho[p] Jewis 24
and Grekis[q] that ben clepid, we prechen Crist the vertu of God and the wisdom of God. For that that is foli thing of 25 God, is wiser than men; and that that is the[r] feble[s] thing of God, is strengere than men. But, britheren, se 3e 3oure 26
clepyng; for not many wise men aftir the fleisch, not many my3ti[t], not many noble[u]. But God chees tho thingis that 27 ben fonned of the world, to confounde wise men; and God chees the feble 28
thingis of the world, to confounde the[v] stronge thingis; and God chees the vn-noble thingis 'and dispisable thingis[w] of the world, and tho thingis that ben not,
to distruye tho thingis that ben; that 29
ech man haue not[x] glorie in his si3t.
But of hym 3e ben in Crist Jhesu, 30 which is maad of God to vs wisdom, and ri3twisnesse, and holynesse, and a3enbiyng; that, as it is wrytun, He that 31 me to kunne ony thing among 3ou, but Crist Jhesu, and hym crucified. And 3

Y in sikenesse, and drede, and myche[y] trembling, was among 3ou; and my word 4 and my preching was not in suteli[z] stur-yng wordis of mannus wisdom, but in schewyng of spirit and of vertu; that 5 3oure feith be not in the wisdom of men, but in the vertu of God. For we speken 6

21 is not for[r] to ete the Lordis sopere[s]; for-soth[t] ech man `bifore takith[u] his sopere for[v] to ete, and sothely anothir[w] is[x] hun-
22 grie, another[y] forsoth is drunkyn. Wher[z] 3e han not housis for[a] to ete and drynke[b], or 3e dispisen the chirche of God, and confounden[c] hem that han not? What schal I seye to 3ou? I preise 3ou; in this
23 thing I preise[d] not. Forsothe I haue takun of the Lord that thing, `the which[e] and I haue bytakun[f] to 3ou. For the Lord Jhesu[g], in what ny3t he was by-
24 trayed, took breed, and `doynge graces[h], `or thankyngis[i], he[k] brak, and seide, Take 3e, and `ete 3e[l]; this is my body, the[m] which schal be bitrayd for 3ou; do 3e
25 this thing `in to[n] my mynde. Also and he took the cuppe, aftir[o] he hath[p] soupid, seiynge, This cuppe is the newe testament in my blood; do 3e this thing, how ofte euere 3e schulen drynke[q], in to my mynde.
26 Sothli[r] how ofte euere 3e schulen ete this breed, and schulen[s] drynke the cuppe, 3e schulen schewe[t] the deeth of the Lord, 27 til he come. `And so[u] who euere `schal ete[v] the breed, or drynke[w] the cuppe of the Lord vnworthily, he schal be gilty of 28 the body and[x] blood of the Lord. For-soth proue a man him silf, and so ete he of `the ilke[y] breed, and drynke[yy] of the 29 cuppe. Forsoth[z] he that etith and drynk-ith vnworthily, etith and drynkith dom, `or dampnacioun[a], to hym[b], not wysely 30 demynge the[c] body of the Lord. Therfore among 3ou manye[d] syke, and vnstronge[e], `or feble[f], and manye slepen, `or deien[g], to ete the Lordis soper; for whi ech man 21

ther 3e han not housis to ete and drynke, or 3e dispisen the chirche of God, and confounden hem that han noon? What schal Y seie to 3ou? Y preise 3ou, but here yn Y preise 3ou not.
For Y haue takun of the Lord that 23 thing, which[d] Y haue bitakun to 3ou. For the Lord Jhesu, in what ni3t he was bitraied, took breed, and dide thank- 24 yngis, and brak, and seide, Take 3e, and ete 3e; this is my bodi, which schal be bitraied for 3ou; do 3e this thing in to my mynde. Also the cuppe, aftir that 25 he hadde soupid, and seide, This cuppe is the newe testament in my blood; do 3e this thing, as ofte as 3e schulen drynke, in to my mynde. For as ofte as 3e schu- 26 len ete this breed, and schulen[e] drynke the[f] cuppe, 3e schulen telle the deth* of the Lord, til that he come. Therfor who 27 euere etith the breed, or drynkith the cuppe of the Lord vnworthili, he schal be gilti of the[g] bodi and of the[h] blood of the Lord. But preue a man hym silf, 28 and so ete he of `the ilke[i] breed, and drynke[k] of the cuppe. For he that etith 29 and drinkith vnworthili, etith and drink-ith doom to hym, not wiseli demyng the bodi of the Lord. Therfor among 3ou 30 many ben sijke and feble, and manye slepen. And if we demyden[l] wiseli vs 31

But of spiritual thingis, britheren, Y 1 nyle that ȝe vnknowun. For ȝe witen, 2 that whanne ȝe weren hethene men, hou ȝe weren led goynge to doumbe maumetis. Therfor Y make knowun to ȝou, 3 that no man spekynge in the spirit of God, seith departyng fro Jhesu; and no man may seie the Lord Jhesu, but in the Hooli Goost. And dyuerse graces ther 4

'til to 3it[w], forsothe summe[x] han slepte, 7 'or dyede[y]; aftirward he was seyn to 8 James, aftirward to alle apostlis[z]. Forsoth at the laste of alle, he was seyn and[a] 9 to me, as to a mysborn child. Forsoth[b] I am the leeste of apostlis, that am not worthi for[c] to be clepid apostle, for I 10 pursuede the chirche of God. Forsothe by the grace of God, I am that thing that I am; and his grace was not voyde, 'or ydel[d], in me. But I trauelide more plenteuously than alle thei; forsoth not I, but 11 the grace of God with me. Sothli whether I, whether thei, so we han prechid, 12 and so 3e[e] han bileuyd. Forsoth if Crist is prechid, that he roos a3en fro deed spiritis[f], hou[g] 'summe seyn[h] 'in 3ou[i], for[k] the[l] a3en rysinge of deed men is not? 13 Forsoth if the[m] a3en rysinge of deed men 14 is not, nether Crist roos[n]. Sothli if Crist roos not, oure prechinge is veyn, oure 15 feith is veyn. Forsoth and we[o] ben found fals witnessis of God, for we han seyd witnessynge a3ens God, that he reyside Crist, whom he reiside not, if deed men 16 rysen not a3en. Forwhy if deede men rysen not a3en, nether Crist roos[p] a3en; 17 that if Crist roos not a3en, oure feith is veyn[q]; forsoth[r] 3it 3e ben in 3oure 18 synnes[s]. Therefore and[ss] thei that slepten[t], 'or dyeden[u], in Crist[v], 'han perischid[w]. 19 If in this lyf oonly we ben hopinge in Crist, we ben more wrecchis than alle 20 men. Now forsoth Crist roos a3en, 'fro deede men[x], the firste fruytis of slepynge[y] 21 men, 'or deyinge[z]; for sothli 'bye a man deeth[a], and bye a man[b] a3en rysinge of 22 deed men[c]. And last of alle he was seyn 8 also to me, as to a deed[n] borun child. For Y am the leste of apostlis[o], that am 9 not worthi to be clepid apostle, for Y pursuede the chirche of God. But bi 10 the grace of God Y am that thing that Y am; and his grace was[p] not voide in me. For Y trauelide more plenteuously than alle thei; but not Y, but the grace of God with me. But whether Y, or 11 thei, so we han prechid, and so 3e[q] han bileuyd. And if Crist is prechid, that 12 he roos a3en fro deeth, hou seien summen among 3ou, that the a3enrisyng of deed men is not? And if the a3enrisyng 13 of deed men is not, nethir Crist roos a3en fro deeth. And if Crist roos not, oure 14 preching is veyn, oure feith is veyn. And 15 we ben foundun false witnessis of God, for we han seid witnessyng a3ens God, that he reiside Crist, whom he reiside not, if deed men risen not a3en. For- 16 whi if deed men risen not a3en, nether Crist roos a3en; and if Crist roos not 17 a3en, oure feith is veyn; and 3it 3e ben in 3oure synnes. And thanne thei that 18 han diede in Crist, han perischid. If in 19 this life oneli we ben hoping in Crist, we ben more wretchis than alle men. But now Crist roos[r] a3en fro deth, the 20 firste fruit of deed men; for deeth was bi 21 a man, and bi a man is[s] a3enrisyng fro deth. oure tribulacioun, that and we mown comforte hem, that ben in al pressure[o], `or ouerleyinge[p], by the[q] exortacioun[r], `or monestynge[s], by which and we ben mo- 5 nestid of God. For as[t] the passiouns of Crist ben plenteuous in vs, so and by Crist 6 oure counfort is plenteuous. Forsoth wher we[u] ben trowblid[v], `or pursuwed[w], for 3oure techinge[x] and helthe, ethir[y] we[z] ben comfortid, for[a] 3oure[b] comfort, ethir we ben monestid, for[c] 3oure monestinge and heelthe. The[d] which worchith in 3ou the suffryng of the same passiouns, the[e] whiche 7 and we suffren, that oure hope be sadd for 3ou; witynge for as 3e ben felowis of[f] passiouns, so 3e schulen be and of comfort. 8 Forsothe[g], britheren[h], we wolen `not 3ou for[i] to vnwite[k] of oure tribulacioun, that is[l] don in Asye; for ouer maner we ben[m] greuyd aboue vertu[n], `or my3te[o], so that 9 it anoy3ede[p] vs, 3he, for[q] to lyue. But[r] we silf[s] in vs[t] silf hadden answere[u] of deeth, that we be not tristinge in vs[v] silf[w], but 10 in God that reysith[x] deede men. The[y] which delyuerede vs, `and delyuereth[z] fro so[a] greet perelis, in to[b] whom we hopen, 11 for and 3it he schal delyuere, `helpynge and[c] 3ou[d] in prayere for vs; that of the persoones of manye faces of that 3yuynge that is in 3ou[e], by[f] manye parceneris[g], `graces, or thankyngis[h], ben don to God 12 for vs[i]. Forwhi oure glorie is this, the witnessinge of oure conscience, that in symplenesse and clennesse of God, and not in[k] fleischly wysdom, but in the grace of God, we lyuen[l] in this world, forsoth more 13 plenteuously to[m] 3ou. Sothli we wryten not othere thingis[n], than tho that 3e han rad and knowen, forsoth I hope that til 14 to[o] the ende 3e schulen knowe, as and 3e oure tribulacioun, that also we moun coumforte hem, that ben in al diseese, bi the monestyng bi which also we ben monestid of God. For as the passiouns 5 of Crist ben plenteuouse in vs, so also bi Crist oure coumfort is plenteuouse. And 6 whether we ben in tribulacioun, for 3oure tribulacioun and heelthe, ethir we ben coumfortid, for 3oure coumfort, ethir we ben monestid, for 3oure monestyng and heelthe. Which worchith in 3ou the suffring of the same passiouns, whiche `we also[b] suffren, that oure hope be sad for 7 3ou; witynge for as 3e[c] ben felowis of passiouns, so 3e schulen ben also[d] of coumfort. For, britheren, we wolen that 8 3e wite of oure tribulacioun, that was don in Asie; for ouer maner[e] we weren greued ouer my3t, so that it anoiede vs, 3he, to lyue. But we in vs silf hadden 9 answere of deth, that we truste not in vs, but in God that reisith deed men. Which delyuerede vs, and delyuerith fro 10 so grete perelis, in to whom we hopen, also 3it[f] he schal delyuere, while[g] also 11 3e helpen in preier for vs; that of the persones of many faces* of that 3yuyng that is in vs, thankyngis ben don for vs bi many men† to God. For oure glorie 12 is this, the witnessyng of oure conscience, that in symplenesse and clennesse of God, and not in fleischli wisdom, but in the grace of God, we lyueden in this world, but more[h] plenteuousli to 3ou. And we writen not othere 13 thingis to 3ou, than tho that 3e han red and knowe, and Y hope that in to the ende 3e schulen knowe, as also 3e han 14 knowe vs a parti; for we ben 3oure glorie, as also 3e ben oure[i] in the dai of

But[f], britheren, we[g] maken knowun 1
to 3ou the grace of God, that is 3ouun
in the chirchis of Macedonye, that in 2
myche asaiyng of tribulacioun, the plente
of the ioye of hem was, and the hi3este
pouert of hem was plenteuouse `in to[h]
the richessis of the symplenesse of hem.
For Y bere witnessyng to hem, aftir 3
mi3t and aboue mi3t thei weren wilful, with myche monestyng bisechynge vs 4
the grace and the comynyng of mynystring, that is maad to hooli men.
And not as we hopiden, but thei 3auen 5 hem silf first to the Lord, aftirward to vs bi the wille of God. So that we 6 preyeden Tite, that as he bigan, so also he performe in 3ou this grace. But as 7 3e abounden in alle thingis, in feith,

Lord Jhesu Crist, for he was maad nedi for 3ou, whanne he was riche, that 3e schulden be maad riche bi his nedynesse. And Y[l] 3yue counsel in this 10 thing; for this is profitable to 3ou, that not oneli han[m] bigunne to do, but also 3e bigunnen to haue wille fro the formere 3ere. But now parfourme 3e in 11

dirstondinge into the[z] seruyse of Crist;
6 also[a] hauynge[b] in redynesse for[c] to venge
al symplenesse, which worchith bi vs doing of thankingis to God. For the 12 mynystrie of this office not oneli fillith tho thingis that failen to holi men, but also multiplieth many thankyngis to God, bi the preuyng of this mynystrie, 13
which glorifien[h] God in the obedience of 3oure knouleching[i] in the gospel of Crist, and in symplenesse of comynycacioun in to hem and in to alle, and in 14
the biseching of hem for 3ou, that desiren 3ou for the excellent grace of God in
3ou. Y do thankyngis to God of the 15
3ifte of hym, that may not be teld.

CAP. X.

And Y my silf Poul biseche 3ou, bi 1
the myldenesse[k] and softnesse[l] of Crist,
which in the face am meke among 3ou, and Y absent triste in 3ou. For Y preie 2 3ou, that lest Y present be not bold bi the trist, in which Y am gessid to be bold[m] in to summe, that demen vs, as if we wandren aftir the fleisch. For we 3 walkynge[n] in fleisch[o], fi3ten not aftir the 15 Forsoth[s] whanne it pleside to him, that departide me fro the wombe of my modir,

16 and clepid by his grace, that he schulde schewe in me his sone, that I schulde preche hym in[t] hethene men, anoon I acor-
17 dide[u] not to fleisch[w] and blood[x]; nether I cam to Jerusalem to my bifore goeris apostlis, but I wente forth into Arabye, Jhesu Crist, that 3af hym silf for oure synnes, to delyuere vs fro the present wickid world, bi the wille of God and of[b] oure fadir, to whom is worschip and glorie in to worldis of worldis. Amen.

I wondur, that so soone 3e be thus moued fro hym that clepid 3ou in to the grace of Crist, in to another euangelie; which is not anothir, but that ther ben summe that troublen[c] 3ou, and wolen mysturne the euangelie of Crist. But thou3 we, or an aungel of heuene, prechide to 3ou, bisidis that that we han prechid to 3ou, be he acursid. As Y haue seid bifore, and now eftsoones Y seie, if ony[d] preche to 3ou bisidis that that 3e han vndurfongun, be he cursid[e].
For now whether counsele Y men, or God? or whether Y seche to plese men? If Y pleside 3it men[f], Y were not Cristis seruaunt. For, britheren, Y make knowun to 3ou the euangelie, that was prechid of me, for it is not bi man; ne Y took it of man, ne lernyde, but bi reuelacioun of Jhesu Crist. For 3e han herd my conuersacioun sumtyme in the Jurie, and[g] that Y pursuede passyngli[h] the chirche of God, and fau3t a3en it. 23 Forsothe bifore that the feith cam, we weren kept vndir the lawe, schette to gidere in to that faith that was to be schew-24 id. `And so[o] the lawe[p] was oure litil maistir in Crist, that we be iustified[q] of the[r] feith.
25 But where[s] the feith cam, now we ben 26 not[t] vndir the litil maistir[u]. Forsoth[v] alle 3e[w] ben the sones of God by feith in

5 man, maad vndir the lawe, that `he schulde a3enbye hem that weren vndir the lawe, that[v] we schulde resceyue the adopcioun[w] in the hoond of a mediatour. But a mediatour is not of oon. But God is oon[p]. Is thanne the lawe a3ens the biheestis[q] 21 of God? God forbede. For if the lawe were 3ouun, that my3te quikene, verili were ri3tfulnesse of lawe. But scrip- 22 ture[r] hath concludid alle thingis vndir synne[s], that the biheeste of the feith of Jhesu Crist were 3yuen to hem that bileuen. And tofor that bileue cam, 23 thei weren kept vndur the lawe, enclosid in to that bileue that was to be schewid. And so the lawe was oure vndirmaister 24 in Crist, that we ben iustified of bileue. But aftir that bileue cam, we ben not 25 now vndur the vndurmaistir. For alle 3e 26 ben the children of God thoru3 the bileue of Jhesu Crist. For alle 3e that ben 27 baptisid, ben clothid with Crist. Ther is 28 no Jewe, ne[t] Greke, ne[u] bond man, ne[v] fre man, ne[w] male, ne[x] female; for alle 3e ben oon[y] in `Jhesu Crist[z]. preieris for alle 3ou with ioye, makynge a 5 bisechinge on 3oure comunynge[g] in the gospel of Crist, fro the firste day[h] til[i] 6 now; tristnynge[k] this ilke thing, for[l] he that bigan in 3ou a good work, schal per-7 forme til into the day of Jhesu Crist. As it is iust to me for[m] to feele this thing for `alle 3ou[n], for that I haue 3ou in herte, and in my boondis, and in defendyng and confermyng[o] of the gospel, `alle 3ou[p] for[q] 8 to[r] be felowis of my ioye. Forsothe God is a witnesse to me, hou I coueite 3ou alle 9 in the bowelis of Jhesu Crist. And this thing I preye[s], that 3oure charite be plen-teuous more and more in science[t], `or 10 kunnynge[u], and in al witt; that 3e proue bettere[v] thingis, that 3e be clene and with-11 oute offence[w] in the day of Crist; fulfillid[x]
with the fruyt of ri3twysnesse by Jhesu Crist, into the heriynge[y] and[z] glorie of 12 God. Forsoth, britheren, I wole 3ow[a] for[b] to[c] wite, that the[d] thingis that ben aboute me han comyn `more to the[e] profyte of 13 the gospel, so that my boondis weren
maad knowun in[f] Crist, in ech moot halle, 14 and in alle othere placis; that mo of[g] britheren in the Lord tristenynge[h] in[i] my boondis, more[k] plenteuously[l] dursten with 15 oute drede speke the word of God. Summe forsoth and for enuye and stryf[m], summe
forsoth and for good wille, prechen Crist;
16 summe forsoth of charite, witinge for[n] I 17 am putt in the defence of the gospel. Forsoth summe of contencioun, `or stryf[o], schewen Crist not `clenly, gessinge[p] hem
for[q] to[r] reyse pressure[s] to my boondis.
18 What sothly? `the while[t] in[u] al maner,
ether by contencioun[v], ether[w] by treuthe, Crist is schewid; and in this thing I haue
ioye, but and[x] `in this thing[y] I schal haue 19 ioye. Sothli I woot, that this thing schal my preyeris for alle 3ou with ioye, and make a[c] bisechyng on 3oure comynyng 5

in the gospel of Crist, fro the firste day til nowe; tristenynge[d] this ilke[e] thing, 6
that he that bigan in 3ou a good werk, schal perfourme it til in to the dai of Jhesu Crist. As it is iust to me to feele 7
this thing for alle 3ou, for that Y haue 3ou in herte, and[f] in my boondis, and in defending and confermyng of the gospel, that alle 3e be felowis of my ioye. For 8
God is a witnesse to me, hou Y coueyte alle 3ou in the bowelis[g] of Jhesu Crist.
And this thing Y preie, that 3oure cha- 9 rite be plenteuouse more and more in kunnyng, and in al wit; that 3e preue 10
the betere thingis, that 3e be clene and without offence in the dai of Crist; fillid 11
with the fruyt of ri3twysnesse bi Jhesu Crist, in to the glory and the[h] heriyng of God. For, britheren, Y wole that 3e 12 wite, that the thingis that ben aboute me han comun more to the[i] profit of the gospel, so that my boondis weren maad 13 knowun in Crist, in ech moot halle, and in alle other placis; that mo of britheren 14
tristinge[k] in the Lord more plenteuously
for my boondis, dursten without drede speke the word of God. But[l] summe 15 for enuye and strijf, summe for good wille, prechen Crist; and summe of[m] 16 charite, witinge that Y am put in the defense of the gospel. But[n] summe of 17
strijf schewen Crist not cleneli, gessynge hem to reise tribulacioun to my boondis.
But what? the[o] while on al maner, ethir 18
bi occasioun, ethir bi treuthe, Crist is schewid; and in this thing Y haue ioye, but also Y schal haue ioye. And Y 19
woot, that this thing schal come to me come to me into heelthe by 3oure preier, and the vndirmynistringe of the spirit of 20 Jhesu Crist, vp[z] myn abidyng and[a] hope. For in no thing I schal be confoundid, 'or schamed[b], but in al trist as euermore and now, Crist schal be magnyfied in my body, 21 ether by lyf, ether by deeth. Forsothe to me for[c] to lyue Crist is[d], and for[dd] to deie 22 wynnyng[e]. That if for[f] to lyue in fleisch, this is fruyt of work to me, and what 23 I schal cheese, I knowe not. Forsoth I am constreyned[g] of twey[h] thingis, hauynge desyr for[i] to be dissolued, 'or departid the soule fro body[k], and for[l] to be with Crist, it is moche[m] more bettere[n];

24 forsoth[o] for[p] to dwelle in fleisch, it[q] is 25 nedeful for 3ou. And I tristinge this thing, wot that I schal dwelle[r], and[s] parfitly dwelle to alle 3ou, to '3oure profyit[t]
26 and ioye of[u] feith, that 3oure thankyng habounde in Crist Jhesu in me, by my

And this[dd] thing of[e] God. For it is 3ouun to 3ou for Crist, that not oonly 3e bileuen in to him, but also that 3e suffren for him;
30 hauynge the[ee] same stryf[f], what 'maner and[ff] 3e syȝen in me, and now 3e han herd of me.

CAP. II.

1 Therfore if ony comfort in Crist, if ony solace of charite, if ony felowschip of spirit, if ony[g] entraylis[h] of mercy doynge[i],
2 fulfille[k] 3e my ioye, that 3e vndirstonde vndurmynystring[q] of the spirit of 'Jhesu Crist[r], bi myn abidyng and[s] hope. For 20 in no thing Y schal be schamed[t], but in al trist as euere more and now, Crist schal be magnefied in my bodi, ether bi lijf, ether bi deth. For me to lyue is 21 Crist, and to die is wynnyng. That if to 22 lyue in fleisch, is fruyt of werk to me, lo! what Y schal[u] chese, Y knowe not. But Y am constreyned of twei thingis, 23
Y haue desire[v] to[w] be dissolued[x], and to be with Crist, it[y] is myche more betere; but to[z] dwelle in fleisch, is[a] nedeful for 24
3ou. And Y tristinge this thing, woot 25 that Y schal dwelle, and perfitli dwelle to alle 3ou, to 3oure profit and ioye of feith, that 3oure thanking abounde[b] in 26
Crist Jhesu in me, bi my comyng eftsoone to 3ou. Oneli lyue 3e worthili to 27

CAP. IV.

1 Therfore, britheren, `hennis forthward[p]
we preyen 3ou, and biseche in the Lord Jhesu, that as 3e han resceyued of vs how

HEBREWS.

Prolog to the pistle to Ebrews[a].

IN the[b] firste it is to seie, whi the apostle Poul in this pistle[c] 'in wrytynge[d] ne[e] kepte not his maner, or[ee] his[f] custom, that he wroot othir[g] the word of his name, othir[h] the dignyte of ordre. This is the cause, that he wrytinge to hem that of circumcisioun hadde bileuyd, was as[i] an apostle[k] of paymes[l], and not of Ebrewis; knowynge also her pride, schewynge also his mekenesse by feith, the merit of his office he wolde not[m] seie[n] bifore. For in lyche maner John apostle[o], for mekenesse, in his pistle[p] his name by[q] the same resoun putte[r] not bifore. This[s] pistle[t] therfore[u] the apostle is seid to haue sent to Ebrews ywrite[v] in Ebrew tunge; whos witt and ordre holdynge, Luk, the euangelist, aftir the passinge of blessid Poul, 'the apostle[w], made in Grew langage.

Here endith the prolog, and bigynneth the epistle[x].

The prolog on[a] the pistle to Ebrews[aa].

FIRST it is to seye[b], whi Poul, the apostle, in this[c] epistle[d] 'in writinge[e] kepith not his vsage[f], discryuynge his name, or the[g] dignyte of his ordre. This is the cause, that he writynge to hem that of[h] circumcisioun bileueden[i], wroot as the apostle[k] of hethene men, and not of Jewis; and he knowynge her pride, and schewinge his owene humblenesse[l], nolde[m] not[n] putte bifore the dissert of his office. And in lijk manere also Joon, the apostle, for humblenesse[o], in[p] his epistle[q] for the same skile sette not his name tofore[r]. As[s] it is seid, the apostle[t] sente this epistle[u] to the Ebrewis writun in Ebrew tunge; and after the deth of Poul, the apostle, Luk, the[v] euangelist, made it in Greek[w] speche, holdinge the vndurstondynge and the ordre of it.

NOT[b] the same ordre is at Greekis, that holly sauouren[c], and the[cc] riȝte feith[d] folewen[dd], of the seuene epistolis that ben clepid canonysid, as in Latyn bokys. It is founden sothly, that Petir is the[e] firste in noumbre[f] of apostolis[g], also his epistolis shulden ben first in the[gg] ordre of othere; but as the euangelistis 'sum tym to the lyne of treuthe[h] now we han correctid, so these epistolis to ther owne ordre, God helpende, we han ȝolden. The firste sothli of hem is of Jamys, two[i] of Petir, thre of Jon, oen of Jude. The whiche, if as of hem thei[j] weren mad[k], so also of[l] interpretouris, or vndoeris, in[m] to[n] Latyn speche thei 'were turned[o] treuly, neither doute to men redende thei shulde make, neither diuersete of wordes shulde enpugne themself; in that[p] place, nameli[pp], where in[q] the onhed of the Trynyte, in the firste epistil of John wee reden[r] set[s], in whiche[t] also wee finden[tt] myche thing to ben errid of vntrewe translatouris, potende hem 'the names onli[u] of thre, of watir, of blod, and of the[v] spirit, in thilke her making, and leuende the witnesse of the Fadir, and of the Sone, and of the Holi Gost, in the whiche most bothe the feith of riȝt beleue is strengthid, and oen substaunce of the Godhed of the Fadir, and Sone[w], and[x] Holi Gost is proued. In othere epistolis sothly, hou myche fro oure otheris making discordith, I leue to the prudence of the redere. CAP. I.

1 WHICHE[b] thing was fro[c] the[d] bigynnynge, which we herden, which we si3en with oure i3en, whiche we bihelden, and oure hondes tretiden to gydere, 'or touch- shewid. And we si3en, and we witnessen, and tellen to 3ou euerelastinge lijf, that was anentis the fadir, and apperide to us.

3 Therfore[f] that thing, that we si3en, and herden[g], we tellen to 3ou[h], that and[i] 3e
haue felaushippe with us, and oure felau-schip be with the fadir, and his sone
4 Jhesu Crist. And 'this thing we writen[k]
to 3ou, that 3e haue ioye, and 3oure ioye 5 be ful. And this is the tellyng, that we herden of him, and tellen to 3ou, for[l] God is li3t, and ony derknesses ben not in him.
6 If we 'shulen seie[m], for[n] we han felau-schip with him, and we wandren in derknessis, we li3en, and we[o] don not treuthe.
7 Sotheli if we walken in li3t, as and[p] he is lechen oure synnes, he is feithful and iust,

CAP. I.

THAT thing* that was fro the bigyn- 1
nyng, which we herden, which we sayn with oure i3en, which we bihelden, and oure hondis touchiden, of the word of lijf; and the lijf is schewid. And we sayn, 2 and we[b] witnessen, and tellen to 3ou the[c] euerlastynge lijf, that was anentis the fadir, and apperide to vs. Therfor 'we 3 tellen to 3ou[d] that thing, that we seyn, and herden[e], that also 3e haue felow-schipe with vs, and oure felowschip be with the fadir, and with his sone Jhesu Crist. And we writen this thing to 3ou, 4 that 3e haue ioye, and that 3oure ioye be ful. And this is the tellyng, that we 5 herden of hym, and tellen to 3ou, that God is li3t, and ther ben no derknessis in him. If we seien, that we han felaw- 6 schip with hym, and we wandren in derknessis, we lien, and don not treuthe.
But if we walken in li3t, as also he is in 7 li3t, we han felawschip togidere; and the blood of Jhesu Crist, his sone, clensith vs fro al synne. If we seien, that we han 8

seie[w], for[x] we han not synned, we maken him a liȝer, and his word is not in us.

CAP. II.

1 My litel sones, I wrijte to ȝou thes thinges, that ‘ȝe synne not[y]. But and[z] if ony man ‘shal synne[a], we han auoket anentis 2 the fadir, Jhesu Crist iust, and he is help-yng for oure synnes; sotheli[b] not onely for oure[c], but also for[d] of[e] al the world.
3 And in this thing we witen, for[f] we han[g]
knowun him, if we kepen his commaunde-4 mentes. He[h] that seith him[i] for[k] to[l] ‘haue knowe[m] God, and kepith not his commaundementes, is a liȝer, and treuthe is 5 not in him. Forsothe who[n] kepith his[o]
word, ‘verily in him is parfijt charite[p].
In this thing we witen, for[q] we ben in 6 him, if we shulen[r] be parfijt in him. He that seith him[s] for[t] to[u] dwelle[v] in him, and he[w] owith for[x] to walke, as he walkide.
7 Moost dere[y], I wrijte to ȝou, not a newe maundement, but the olde maundement, that ȝe hadden fro[z] the[a] bigynnyng. The olde maundement is the word, that ȝe 8 herden. Eftsoone I wrijte to ȝou a newe maundement, that is trewe[b] and[c] in[d] him and in ȝou; for derknesses[e] passeden, and 9 verrey[f] liȝt ‘now shijneth[g]. He that seith him[h] for[i] to[k] be[l] in liȝt, and haatith his 10 brother, is in derknesse[m] til to ȝit. He that loueth his brothir, dwellith in liȝt, 11 and sclaundre is not in him. Sotheli he that haatith his brother, is in derknessis,
and ‘in derknessis wandrith[n], and woot
not whidir he goith; for derknesses han 12 blyndid his iȝen. Litel sones, I wrijte to ȝou, for[o] ȝoure synnes ben forȝouun to ȝou 13 for his name. Fadirs, I wrijte to ȝou,

he forȝyue to vs oure synnes, and clense
vs from al wickidnesse. And if we seien, 10 we[h] han not synned, we maken hym a liere, and his word is not in vs.

CAP. II.

Mi litle sones, Y write to ȝou these 1 thingis, that ȝe synnen not. But if ony man synneth, we han an[i] aduocat[k] anentis
the fadir, Jhesu Crist, and he is the for- 2
ȝyuenes[l] for[m] oure synnes[n]; and not oneli
for oure synnes, but also for the synnes of al the world†. And in this thing we 3
witen, that we knowen hym, if we kepen hise comaundementis. He that seith 4 that he knowith God, and kepith not hise comaundementis, is a liere, and trewthe is not in hym. But the charite of God is 5 perfit verili in hym, that kepith his word.
In[o] this thing we witen, that we ben in hym, if we ben perfit in hym. He that 6
seith, that he dwellith in hym, he owith for[p] to walke, as he walkide. Moost 7 dere britheren, Y write to ȝou, not a newe maundement, but the elde maunde-ment, that ȝe hadden fro the bigynnyng.
The elde maundement is the word, that ȝe herden. Eftsoone Y write to ȝou a 8 newe maundement, that is trewe bothe in hym and in ȝou; for derknessis ben hatith his brother, is in derknessis, and wandrith in derknessis, and woot not whidir he goith; for derknessis han[r] blindid

if we louen to gydere, God dwellith in us, and the charite of him is parfijt in us.
13 In[x] this thing we knowen, for[y] we dwellen in him, and he in us; for of his spirit he 14 ȝaf to us. And we siȝen, and witnessen, 'for the fadir[z] sente his sone sauyour of 15 the world. Who euere 'shal knowleche[a], for[b] Jhesus is the sone of God, God dwell-
16 ith in him, and he in God. And we han knowen, and bileuen to the charite, that God hath in us. God is charite, and he that dwellith in charite, dwellith in God, 17 and God in him. In this thing is the parfijt charite of God with[c] us, that we haue[d] trist in the day of dome; for as[e] he 18 is, and we ben in this world. Drede is not in charite, but parfijt charite sendith out drede; for[f] drede hath peyne. For-sothe he that dredith, is not parfijt in 19 charite. Therfore loue we God, for he 20 former[g] louede us[h]. If ony man 'shal seie[i], for[k] I loue God, and 'shal haate[l] his brother, he is a liȝer. Sotheli[m] he that loueth not his brother, whiche[n] he seeth, hou mai he[o] loue God, whom he seeth not?
21 And we han this precept[p] of God, that he that loueth God, loue[q] and[r] his brother.

gidre, God dwellith in vs, and the charite of hym is perfit in vs. In this thing we 13 knowen, that we dwellen in hym, and he in vs; for of his spirit he ȝaf to vs. And 14 we sayen, and witnessen, that the fadir sente his sone sauyour of the world.
Who euer knowlechith, that Jhesu is 15 the sone of God, God dwellith in him, and he in God. And we han knowun, 16 and bileuen to the charite, that God hath in vs. God is charite, and he that dwellith in charite, dwellith in God, and God in hym. In this thing is the perfit 17 charite of God with vs, that we haue trist in the dai of dom; for as he is*, also we ben in this world. Drede is not 18 in charite, but perfit charite puttith out drede; for drede hath peyne. But he that dredith, is not perfit in charite.
Therfor loue we God, for he louede vs 19
bifore. If ony man seith, that[o] 'Y loue[p] 20
God, and hatith his brother, he is a liere.
For he that loueth not his brothir, which[q]

This[k] also, whan for the word of God and the[l] witnesse of Jhesu Crist with outlaweri shulde be born in to the ile of Pathmos, there of the same the[m] Apocalips forth[n] shewid was writen, that as in the bigynnyng of canon, that is, of the bok of Genesis, an[o] vncoruptible principle is fornotid, so an vncoruptible ende bi a maiden[p] in the Apocalips shulde be ȝoue[q] of Crist, seiende, I am alfa and oo, bygynnyng and ending[r]. world; and, Litil flok[k], nyle ȝe drede. Therfor God the Fadir, seynge the tribulaciouns whiche hooli chirche was to suffre, that was foundid[l] of the apostlis on Crist the stoon, disposid with the Sone and[m] the Hooli Goost to schewen hem, that me dredde[n] hem the lesse. And al the Trinyte schewide it Crist[o] in his manhed, and Crist to Joon bi an aungel, and Joon to hooli chirche; of which reuelacioun Joon made this book. Wherfore this book is seid Apocalips, that is to seie, Reuelacioun, for here it is conteyned that God schewide to Joon, and Joon to[p] hooli chirche, hou grete thingis hooli chirche suffride in the firste tyme, and now suffrith, and schal suffre in the laste tymes[q] of Antecrist; whanne tribulacioun schal be so greet, that if it mowe be, thei that ben[r] chosun[s], ben meuyd; and whiche meedis[ss] sche[t] schal resseyue for these tribulaciouns, now and[u] tyme[v] to come, that meedis[w] that ben[x] bihote maken[y] hem[z] glad, whom the tribulaciouns that ben teld makith[a] aferd. Therfor this book among othere scripturis of the Newe Testament is clepid bi[b] the[bb] name of prophecie; and it is more excellent than[c] prophetis[d]. For as the Newe Testament is worthier than the Olde, and the gospel than the lawe, so this prophesie passith the profecies of the Olde Testament, for it schewith sacramentis, that ben[e] now a parti fulfillid of Crist, and of hooli chirche. Or ellis, for to othere is oon maner prophecie, but to this is thre maner prophecie[f] ȝeue togidre, that is, of that that is passid, and of that that is present, and of that that[ff] is to come. And to conferme the autorite of it, ther cometh the autorite of hym that sendeth, and of hym that berith, and of hym that resseyueth. He that sendith, is the Trynite; he that berith, the[g] aungel; he[h] that resseyueth, Joon[i]. But[k] whanne these thingis ben schewid to Joon in visioun, and ther ben[l] thre kyndis of visiouns, it[ll] is to seen vndur which kynde this[m] be[n] conteyned[o]. For sum visioun is bodili, as whanne we seen eny thing with bodili iȝen; sum is spiritual, or ymaginarie, as whanne we seen slepinge, or ellis[p] wakinge we biholden the ymagis[q] of thingis, bi whiche sum other thing is signefied; as Farao slepinge siȝ eeris of corn, and Moyses wakinge siȝ the buisch brenne. Anothir visioun is of vndirstonding, as whanne thoruȝ reuelacioun[r] of the Hooli Goost, thoruȝ vndirstonding of thouȝt, we conseyuen[s] the treuthe of mysteries[t]; as Joon sauȝ tho thingis, that ben[u] conteyned in this book. For not oneli he sauȝ in spirit the figuris, but also he vndirstode[v] in thouȝt the[w] thingis that weren signyfied bi hem. Joon sauȝ[x], and wroot in the yle of Pathmos, whanne he was exilid of Domitian, the most wickid prince; and a cause compellide hym to write. For while he was holdun in outlawerie of Domycian, in the ile of Pathmos, in the chirchis, that[y] he hadde gouerned, ther were spronge many vices and dyuerse heresies. For there weren summe heretikis there, that seiden, that Crist was not tofore[z] Marie, for as myche as he was in tyme borun of hir; whiche heretikis Joon in the bigynnyng of his gospel, vndurnymmeth, and seith, In the bigynnyng was the Sone; and in this book whanne he seith, Y am alpha and oo, that is, the bigynnyng and the[a] ende. Summe also seiden, that hooli chirche schulde ende tofore[b] the ende[c] of the world, for charge of tribulaciouns[d], and that it schulde not vndurfonge for her[e] traueile euerlastinge mede. Therfor Joon wilnynge[f] to distruye the errouris of these, schewith that Crist was

ADDITIONAL PROLOGUES.

MATTHEW.

[a]Thou3 al holi writt is ful trewe, nedeful and comfortable to mankynde, netheles the holy gospel, as the herte and[b] spirit therof, is moost profitable to synful men and[c] alle that schulen he saued. Therfore alle men and wymmen that han discrecioun, schulden moost bisily traueile to kunne and[d] kepe the holi gospel, and teche it for the abilite of her staat, namely in holy lyuynge, as Crisostom seith in his prologe on Matheu. Therfore Seint Austyn in his book of kynde and of grace, in the lviij°. c. seith thus, The lawe of the gospel is lawe of charite and[e] of parfi3t fredom, without which noon may be saued. And therfore Seint Jerom translatide and expownede manye bookis of the bible to wymmen, as men moun pleynli[f] se in hise prologis on[g] dyuers bookis of the bible.

Here begynneth another prolog[h].

Sithen aftir the assencioun of Crist the Holy Goost enspiride the hertis of the apostils, and sent them, and hertide hem to preche what Crist dide and tau3te, four speciali of alle weren departide, that prechide the conuersacioun of God in erthe. And also ther prechinge, the which is propirli callid the gospel, thei wroot in ther owne volyms for this entencioun, that the lif of oure Lord Jhesu and his conuersacioun in erthe, the which was perfi3t ensample to oure lyuynge, schulde be in our mind, and shulde euermore be had bifore oure i3en as the rule of our lyuynge, and that his doctryne shulde not be distried thoru3 the witness of fals techinge of heretikis. Of the foure that made the gospel, first was Matheu, that whanne he first in the Jewrie with the apostlis hadde prechide the gospel of Crist, he in wil to passe to techinge of othir naciouns, that were callid gentilis, he wroot the gospel in Ebrew tunge, that he shulde be as present thoru3 his writinge to his britheren, fro whom he wente bodili awei. The which writinge he left aftir him, as a thinge that schulde stirre hem to haue mynde of him, and speciali that he schulde conferme the feith of his firste britheren in God; that the schadowe of the old lawe schulde no more be vsid, but the sothfastness of the gospel; and also that false prechouris and peruerters of holi chirche schuld not ouer sowe in the gospel of Crist ony[i] errouris. And aftir that holi chirch was largid, holi fadris bisiede hem, that the same gospel schulde be translatid into the langage of Grew and Latyn. And Mathews tretinge is speciali of the manhede of Crist, thou3 he seie othere secundarie thingis. Wherefore he bigynneth at the generacioun of his manhede, seijnge in the bigynninge of his writinge, The booke of the generacioun of Jhesu Crist. And ri3tly is Matheu first sett, not as bi naturel order, bot bi artificial ordre; for bi the naturel ordre Joon, that was last, and moost passingli tretith of the godhede of Crist, schulde be first; for the godhede was or the manhede, and the godhede is hede of the manhede. But we trowen, that this was doon thoru3 the counseil of the Holi Goost, that he that tretith of the manhede of Crist, is sett first in ordre. For it is acordinge and skilful, that oure witt ascende litil and litil to the bettere, and that bi feith and the sacrament of the manhede taken of God, it schulde be brou3t to the euerlasting hede of the godhede. Netheles summe seien, that Matheu tellith the incarnacioun of Crist after the king of kingis, and therefore the kingis, 'he seith[k], come to seke, and seiden, Where is he, that is borne king of Jewis? And also he apperide as king bi the sterre; and also it is seid, that Heroude dredde the king that was born. Also Mathew, in acountinge of the generacioun of Crist, goith by Salamon. For Matheu to his bigynning, at the generacion of Crist aftir his manhede, and the ordre of his tellinge, he ledith to the resurreccion of Crist. Netheles, as it is seid, Matheu wroot the gospel for cause of them that reiside[l] the circumcisioun, and wolde not fulli be drawen fro there obseruaunce, thou3 thei hadde taken the baptym; and therefore his entente is to reise them fro ther fleischli vndirstondinge of the lawe to the goostli vndirstondinge of Crist, that thei schulde more sikirly take the sacrament of cristen feith, and that thei schulde more stabli hold the feith; in as miche as thei se not ellis fulfillide, but that was bifore seid in the prophetis. And therefore to hem he writith his book, and seith, The book of the generacioun of Jhesu Crist. In the bigynninge of the book Matheu schewith opinli, that he wole trete of the generacioun of Crist, but of the fleischli generacioun, and not of the tothir, the which is euerlastynge. For holi scripture axith, and seith, Who schal telle his generacioun? Also in this, that Matheu is taken in liknes of man, is declaride that he biginnyth at the begynnynge of the generacion of Crist aftir his manhede. And it is to note also, that Matheu at the bigynnynge of his book followith the maner of the men of Ebrews; for thei were wont in the byginnyng of ther bookis for to set in the bigynnynge the name of the book, telling what thei treten in that book; as the first book of Moises is callyd the book of Genesis, for it tretith of the bigynnynge of the world and first formyng of mankinde. And as other books haue ther name of ther bigynnynge and tretinge, so Matheu, for he bigynneth at the generacioun of Crist after his manhede, therfore he bigynneth his gospel, and seith, The book of the generacioun of Jhesu Crist. And it is to note, that Matheu settith the generacioun of the new man Jhesu Crist a3ens the generacioun of the olde man Adam, thoru3 whom we fell to the deeth and to synne, for to schewe to vs, that we ben fulli restorid by the generacioun of Crist, as we fell doun thoru3 the filid generacioun of Adam. Weel therfore acordith this new testament to the olde, for the old testament bigynnyth at the generacioun of the first man, and making of the world, and the new testament bigynneth at the generacioun of the second man Jhesu Crist, and at the restoringe of the world. The first book is callid the book of Genesis, and it treteth of the ordynancis, the which were in the biginnynge, but not perfi3t; for the old lawe brou3t no man to perfeccion, or to heuene. But this new book of the new lawe is callid the book of generacioun, and treteth of goostli thingis, the which bringith man to perfeccioun. The old book tretith of hostis offringe, and of old preesthood, and this not but in figure. But this book tretith of the verri preest Crist Jhesu, and how he was in the verri hoost offrid and parfit for vs, and fulfillid in the old lawe. The book of the old lawe tretith of the delyuering of the children of Israel out of Egipt; this book of the newe lawe tretith of the delyuering of the peple of God fro helle. The book of the olde lawe tretith of the entre of the children of Israel into the lond of promission or of biheste; this book of the newe testament tretith how our caytifte was lede into heuene, and also it tellith of oure entring into the bliss of heuene. So alle thingis that were in figure in the tothir lawe, in this lawe of the gospel ben schewid alle tho fulfillid goostli. But it is seid bifore, this new generacioun is sette in remedie a3ens the old generacioun; for the firste generacioun brou3te vs to dampnacioun, and the secunde bringith vs to saluacioun and blis; that brou3te vs out of paradijs, this bringith vs into paradijs.

MARK.

[a] Sith Seint Mark, so ful of the Holi Goost that he was maad of him to be oon of the iiii. gospellers, and to be martirid for Crist, held him silf so vnworthi to be preest, and therfore kutte of his thombe, to be vnable to preesthood; myche more we synful wrecchis, ful of vnkunnyngis and synnis, schulen holde us silf vnworthi to the hi3e ordre of preesthood. But sith we haue bounden vs wilfulli to this holi ordre, amende we into bettir that that we haue doon vnworthili bi ignoraunce, and studie we faste ny3t and day in holi writt, to amende our ignoraunce. And encrese we euere in mekenes, in chastite, in wilful pouert, and in charite to God and to men, to freendis and enemyes; and euere be we bisy in holi preieris and gode werkis, that we mowen be worthi to write and teche Goddis lawe to oure lyues eende, and studie how the gospel of Crist schal be vndirstonden. The gospel spekith sumtyme in parablis and lijknessis and allegories, and vndirstondith a goostli thing bi ertheli thing, outhir bi a propirte of kynde. In siche spechis and parablis and lijknes, loke that the sentence be groundid in open text, where the scripture spekith propirly withouten figuris, other in opun resoun that mai not be auoidid, so that al the sentence sounne to loue and charite of ne3eboris, and vertuous lyuynge. And this is the trewe sentence of alle derke placis of holy writt. Thus, whanne Crist is clepid a lomb, it is not vndirstonden of a doumbe lomb with iiij. feet, but the sentence is, that Crist is ynnocent and mylde as a lomb. Thus Crist is seid a stoon, that is, sad in vertues, that groundide othere men in vertues. Thus goode cristen men ben clepid scheep, that is vndirstonden, mylde. And yuel cristen men ben clepid kiddis, foxis, wolues, and othir malicious beestis. In the olde testament God bihetith worldli goodis and temporal prosperitees to hem that kepten hise hestis, but it vndirstondith goostli goodis and the blisse of heuene, which is principal meede of vertues. But the gospel of Jhesu Crist bihetith tribulacioun and sorowe in this world to hise kepers, and aboundaunce of goostli comfort, and euerlastynge blisse in heuen in bodi and soule. Therfore Jhesu Crist, that lyuede moost vertuousli, hadde grettist tribulaciouns, dispisynge and pursuynge, and sclaundir and peyneful deeth in this lijf, and now he hath moost glorie of alle men in blisse. And alle hise apostlis and loued freendis hadden the same in this lijf; but with this thei hadden so greet comfort of the Holi Goost in her soulis, that thei hadde greet ioie in her tribulacioun; and the more that her bodi was peyned for truthe, the more her soule was comfortid in God, with perfi3t charite to her enemyes. Therfor Crist seith in the gospel, in xvi. chapitre of Jon, The world schal haue ioie, and 3e schulen haue sorowe; but 3oure sorowe schal turne into ioie. And Austyn seith, If thou wolt not suffre pacientli tribulacioun, and hatrede of the world, and persecucioun with Crist, heed of holi chirche, thou forsakist to be a membre of Crist. For Poul seith in the ij. pistil to Tymothe, the ij. c°., Alle that wolen lyue piteuousli eithir feithfully in Jhesu Crist, schulen suffre persecucioun. But ful comfort Crist seith in the fifthe chapitre of Matheu, 3e schulen be blessid whanne men schulen curse 3ou, and schulen pursue 3ou, and seie al yuel a3ens 3ou, liynge, for me, that is, for my lawe; make 3e ioie, and be 3e glad in that day, for 3oure mede is plenteuous in heuens. And therfore James seith in the i°. c°., Mi britheren, deeme 3e al ioie, whanne 3e fallen into dyuers temptaciouns, that is, tribulaciouns. Therfore the apostlis 3eden ioiynge fro the si3t of the counseil, outher presence, for thei weren worthi to suffre dispi3t for the name of Jhesu. And Poul seith ofte, We han glorie in tribulaciouns. And now we moun se, that now in tyme of grace vndir the newe testament, aduersitees and tribulaciouns is more schewynge of grace than prosperitees, thou3 the olde lawe bihete men prosperite that kepte it, as the Ps. Beati omnes qui timent Dominum, bisemeth to bihete, and manie other placis of the olde testament. For in the newe testament temporal prosperitees, that was bihote in the olde testament, is turned into aboundaunce of vertues and goostli comfort, with persecucioun and tribulaciouns, as Crist and hise seruauntis hadden. And therfore ech cristen man make him redi in wil, and euere crie to God with al his herte, that he 3eue to him grace, to suffre not oonli patientli, but also ioiefully, alle tribulaciouns in this world, and thus to be a trewe cristen man, truli suynge Crist.

Another prologe on Mark[b].

This gospeler Mark, the which was the disciple of Petir the apostil, and he si3 not Crist in bodi, but he that herde the prechinge of his maistir, wroot the gospel in Italie, in tyme of Claudius the emperour. And the cause was this, for he was preied of the disciplis of Peter, at whose axing he wroot the gospel, the which Peter confirmed after, as Clemens seith. And this book hath three parties. The first part lastith vnto the tenth chapitre, in the which parti he passith schortli to the thritti 3eer of Crist; and ther is conteyned xiiij. benefitis or myraclis, that he dide on the peple, to conferme that he was verry God and man. In the secunde partie ben putt xiiij. thingis, that parteyne to the ..... of the citee of Jerusalem; and this part lastith for the tenth chapitre vnto the xv. c°. In the third part is maad mynde of the passioun of Crist, and of his resurrecciouu.

LUKE.

[a] Luk hath manie special poyntis, and nameli of oure Ladi, and almoost alle the poyntis of Matheu and of Mark; and therfore he comprehendith moost lettre of alle the gospelleris, thouȝ he haue not so manye chapitris as Mathew. As Luyk was first a bodily leche bi craft of kynde, so he is a myche bettir goostli leche of cristen soulis, bi techinge, prechinge and writynge of Cristis gospel. Sith Luyk lefte his craft of bodily medecyne, and suede so bisili Poul, to lerne and preche and write the gospel; myche ouȝten Cristen preestis to putte awei worldly bisynes and erthely lucre, to lerne and preche and write the holi gospel. But as Grosthed seith, in his secunde Dicte, Manye clerkis lernen lucratijf sciencis, to gete richessis and honouris of the world. Summen lernen filosophie, to knowe kyndis of elementis, of beestis, of eerbis, and of othere creaturis, to be preisid of men for these sciencis; summen lernen fisik, to make mennis bodies hole of dyuers sijknessis, that herbi thei seme as to reise hem fro deeth to lif, and geten therwith myche riches and honouris; summen lernen musik, to chaunge mennis hertis into dyuers affeccioun bi swetnes of songis; summen lernen the craft of alkymye, to make clene of vnclene metal bi greet traucile and craft, as to make siluir and gold of vnclene metals. But, he seith, a trewe techere of Goddis lawe schal make myche bettir chaungis goostli, in turnynge synful soulis fro her synne, than ony of these othir clerkis doon bi here kyndely sciencis. For as seynt Austyn and seynt Bernard seien, It is miche bettere, that a man kneew God and himsilf, than that he kneew heuene and erthe, and alle othir elementis and kindis of creaturis, and kneew not God ne him silf. And whanne men ben sike in the mooste perilous sijknes of orrible synnes, the techere of Goddis word may reise hem to lijf of grace; and that is withouten comparisoun bettere than the lijf of kynde, and myche bettere to turne synful men out of synne bi techinge of Goddis lawe, than bi craft turne o metal into another, as alkemyneris doon. And goode God of his merci stire his peple to be more bisi aboute vertues and goostly riches, that euere schal laste, than aboute ertheli richesse, that soone schal perische. Amen.

Another prologe on Luk [b].

Whanne the gospel was spred bi Matheu in the Jewrie, and bi Mark in Italie, throuȝ the stiring of the Holi Gost, Luyk, that was the disciple of Poul, came the thridde in ordre; the which makinge hiȝere repeticioun, wroot the gospel to oon Teophile, in the cuntre of Acaye and Boyce. It is seid, that this Luyk was oon of the two disciplis, that wente to Emaws, to whom Crist aperide after his resurreccioun: and after he was the felawe of Poul, in preching to the nacioun; to whom this was a special entent of his traueil, that to the new men of Grece schulde be schewid and declarid the manhede of Crist, that they schulde not ȝeue ther entent to the fablis of Jewis for desier of the lawe; or ellis that thei schulde not be begilid thoruȝ counseil of heresye of false apostils, and turned fro sothfastnes and teching of Crist. And Luk principali tretith of the prechinge of Crist, thouȝ he lefte summe thingis vntold that other tellen. Wherefore he begynneth at the prechinge of Zacarie, Jones fadir, seiyng on this wise, There was in the daies of Eroude kinge, a prest, Zacarie bi name. And seint Luke riȝtly is lijkned to a calf, for it was a beest ordeined to sacrifise; and so of the sacrifise he tretith, of the temple, and of Jerusalem, in the processe of his gospel. In the bigynnynge he settith the preest preynge at the auter, and the folk stondinge withoute to preie. And also he tellith, as aftir the conseyuynge of Crist, Marie went to the bischopis hous Zacarie; where he makith mencioun of the generacioun of Marie and Elizabeth, the whiche was of the kyn of Aaron. And there he tellith the birthe of Baptist, and tellith also that Crist is born, and presentid with offrynge to the temple. There he tellith, how Crist with his modir visitide ech ȝeer the temple, and seith also how Crist, whanne he was twelue ȝeer oold, sat in the temple, techinge the doctouris. And aftir sich seijngis he concludith, in the eende of his gospel, how the disciplis of Crist were in the louynge of Crist, in the temple. This gospeler Luyk, in acountinge of the generacioun of Crist, goith by Nathan the prophete.

JOHN.

Another prologe[a].

Joon treetith moost of the Trynyte, and of the godhede and manhede togidere. Joon wroot this gospel in Greek, and almoost al the newe testament was writen in Greek first. But the gospel of Matheu, and the pistlis to Ebrewis were first writen in Ebrew, as Jerom witnessith in his prolog on Matheu. Summe supposen resonable, that Mark wroot his gospel in Latyn, for as Jerom seith, he wroot into Italie, that is the cuntre of Latins. And so men supposen, that Poul wroot the pistil to Romayns in Latyn, for the same skille; for it was the moder tunge of that cuntre. And whi therfore schulde not men now write truly the lawe of God to cristen men in her modir tunge, that thei writen to? And alle the othere bookis off the newe testament were writen in Greek. And as Jerom and othere doctouris seien, whanne ony doute is in the lettre of the olde testament, thei schulen be proued bi the origynals of Ebrewis; so whanne ony doute is in the lettre of the newe testament, it schal be proued bi the origynals of Greek. But, as Lire seith, we cristen men moten be weel war of the origynals of Ebrew in summe poyntis. For now the Jewis han corrupt her olde lettre in tho placis where it spekith openly of the godhede of Crist, and thei haue do this for hatrede to cristen men, lest we schulden conuicte Jewis bi her owne lettre, that Crist is bothe God and man; but in alle othere placis we schulen take the origynals of Ebrewis. But for cristen men the newe testament is open ynow3. And whanne ony doute cometh in the lettre, outhir in ony vndirstondinge of the lettre, the Holi Goost schal teche us al truthe, as Crist seith in the gospel, if we doon truli that that is in us. And therfore thou3 wickid men hadden brent alle oure bookis, God hath writen his lawe in cristen mennis soulis and consciencis, as he seith in the xxxi. chapitre of Jeremye. And therfore seint Joon seith in his firste pistil to cristen men, in the ij. chapitre, that the anoyntynge, that is, grace of the Holi Goost, techith 3ou alle thingis that ben nedeful to saluacioun, and 3e han no nede that ony man teche 3ou, but as the anoyntynge teehith 3ou. For he that hath charite, hath Crist, in whom alle tresouris of wisdom and kunnynge ben. Netheles men schulde bisely lerne the bookis of holy writt, and speciali the newe testament, lest thei taken Goddis grace in veyn, and tempten God, in desirynge to haue kunnynge bi myracle, withoute traueile and lernynge of holy writ, where thei mowe come li3tly to verri knowynge of Goddis wil, bi good lyuynge and deuoute preiers, and bisi studie and lernynge of holi writt. And God graunte us a stidefast wil hereto. Amen.

Here bigynneth another prologe of othere dyuers doctouris, on Seint Joones gospel[b].

This fourthe gospeller, Joon the apostil and the euangelist, whanne the wickide techinge of Cherynthi and Hebion, and of other impugnynge the manhede of Crist, was rife in the cuntre of Asie, aftir that Joon was reuocate fro[c] the exile of Pathmos, he was preied of alle the bisehops and other trewe cristen men of the chireh of Asie, that he schulde write sumwhat of the godhede of Crist, wher thoru3 the rebelnesse of the heretikis my3te be ouer comen and distried. And for that he was so counseilid and stirid, thoru3 the preier of his britheren in God, he seide that he wolde, if thei ordeynede a fastinge, and preiede the help of Jhesu Crist. And whanne this was don, he was fulfillid with the reuelacioun of God, as eomynge fro heuene. He bigan first, and seide, In the bigynnynge was word, that is, Goddis sone. Also for that other euangelists speke miche of the manhede of Crist, and litil of his godhede, therefore he bigan his gospel at the godhede of Crist, for to write passyngly bifore other therof; and more expresseli and openliere tretith of the godhede than other, thou3 he also ouer passe not vnseid other thingis, the whiche other gospellers treten of. And Joon takith his bigynnyng at the euerlastinge godhede of Crist, and his gospel rechith to the ioie of the resurreccioun of Crist. And this book is departid into nyne partis. The first part is of the getynge of the euerlastinge word; and this part bigynneth thus, In the bigynnynge was word, that is, Goddis sone. The secounde part is of the goynge forth or makynge of creaturis, of God here makere, that bigynneth thus, By him alle thingis ben made. The third part is of the incarnacioun of the word, that is, Goddis sone, that bigynneth thus, And li3t schijnede in derknessis. The fourth part is of the birth of Joon

Baptist, that bigynneth thus, A man was sent fro God. The fifthe part is of the clepinge of the apostils, that bigynneth thus, And Jhesus turnede him, and seinge hem suynge him, seide to hem, Whom seken ȝe? The sixth part is of the miraclis of him and of hise apostlis, the which pertaineth to the saluacioun of alle men, the whiche part in the second chap. bigynneth thus, The third day weddingis weren maad. The seuenth part is of the confermynge of iust men, the which is clepid the greete sermon of the Lord, that bigynneth in the xiii. chap. thus, Bifore the feeste day of pask. The eight part is of the passioun of Crist, in the xviii. chap., that begynneth thus, He went forth with his disciplis ouer the stronde of Cedron. The ninth part is of the resurreccioun, and the aperinge of Crist, in the xx. chap., that bigynneth thus, And in o day of the woke Marie Maudeleyn. And thus is maad open the mater of al the book of Joones gospel.

I. CORINTHIANS.

[a] As the apostil that cowde alle langagis, wroot the pistil to Romans in Latyn, so he wroot this pistil in Greek. Therfor as in the formere pistil he comendith grace, so in this pistil he discreueth sacramentis, in whiche grace is ȝouen. Therfore in the firste pistil he techeth Corinthis of the sacramentis of holy chirche, and in the secunde pistil, of the mynystris of sacramentis. A postille here.—Poul wroot this pistil to Corinthis, that ben of Acaie. Corinthis weren conuerted of the apostil him silf, whiche bi Goddis comaundement was resident at hem a ȝere and vj. monethis, and tauȝte Goddis word among hem; but aftirward thei weren peruertid in manie maners bi false apostlis, so that thei departiden the vnyte of holi chirche, that is, cristen feith, and so pees of the chirche; and thei deniede the vertues and the valu of sacramentis, bi the meritis of mynystris. For thei gesside, that the sacramentis weren of sum valu, if thei weren tretid of goode men, and off more or of lasse valu, if thei weren ȝeuen of more goode men. Aftir, he repreueth hem of the lecchour, whom thei suffriden among hem, that heeld the wijf of his fadir. Aftir, he repreueth hem for fraude among hem silf. And aftir, he techith hem of matrymonye, and of takynge of the sacrament of the auter, where thei erride ful miche, and of manye othere thingis; and aboute the eende of the pistil he settith a moral, excitynge, that is, to fle synnus, and loue and holde vertues.

Another prolog on the pistil to the Corinthis[b].

As the apostil wroot the pistil that goith bifore, to myȝti men and proude, that is to say, to the Romayns, stiringe hem to acoord and charite, the which is seelden among riche men and myȝti of the world, so he wroot this secunde pistel to wise men and kunnynge, that is to seie, to Corinthis, mouynge hem to oonhede and lownesse of witt, or vndirstondinge, the which is seelden among kunnynge men. Wherfore in the iiii. chap. he seith, If God wole, I schal come to you soone, and I schal not knowe the wordis of hem that ben blowen with pride, but the vertu. These Corinthis erriden in thre sacramentis, that is to seie, in baptym and in doctryne of it, of the which it is maad mynde vnto the fifth chap. Also thei erriden in matrimonye, and in causis of it, of the whiche it is seid fro the v. chapter vnto the eiȝthe chapiter. Also thei erriden in the sacrament of the auter and spiritual mete, of the which it is maad mynde fro the eiȝth chap. vnto the xii. chap. Also thei erriden in oonhede of witt, bi stryues that were maad among them, of the which it is maade mynde fro the xii. chap. vnto the xv. chap. Also thei erriden in the resurreccioun of dede men, of the which it is maad mynde in the xv. chap. In the xvi. chap. is maad mynde of almesdede, by the which synnes ben forȝouen. And so al this pistil is deuydid into vi. partis. In the first part he makith mynd of the errour of baptym; in the ii. part, of the error of matrimonye; in the iii. part, of the bodi of Crist; in the iiij. part, of striues and discordis; in the v. part, of errour of resurreccioun; in the vi. part, of almesdede to be maad.

II. CORINTHIANS.

[a] . . . stynatli the pistil, and magnified fals apostlis. But whanne summe of Corinthis weren amendid bi the firste pistil, for cause of othere of hem Poul writith this secunde pistil, and he puttith awei fals apostlis, and schewith the disceit of her prechynge. Also Poul blameth hem, for thei were scarse in almesdedis. And he comaundith thilke lecchour to be resseiued, whom he hadde bitaken to Sathanas. Also hem that weren in tribulacioun he comfortith bi ensaumple of hym silf, and techith that thei be not heuy ne grucchinge, for he is suget to pe . . . . . ech dai for . . . . . .

And here bigynneth anothir prologe[b].

In the formere epistil the apostil scharpli reproues hem, and moost for thei forsook not the ilke open lecchour, and for that summe of hem were amendid, and summe dwellide vnamendid; and for both these he writith this secunde epistil, that thei that were amendid be callid to more grace, and the vnamendid to be amendid. And the apostil comendid him silf bi al the epistil, that he shewe what worschipe and loue owith to be to the prelat, the which labourith so bisily aboute hise sugetis. And this epistil is departid into so many partis, as it hath chapitris, that is to seie, into xiij. In the firste chapitre, he comendith himsilf of pacience in tribulation, and vertue of word. In the ii., of pitee of relesinge, and in fruyt of preching. In the iij., of scripture, which he wrote in the hertis of hem, and of tho thingis that thei vndirstood in books. In the iiij., of ther amending of feith and of hope. In the v., of desire of the cuntre. In the vi., of the workis of penaunce, and a fadris [c]hise sugetis. In the vij., of ensaumplis taken to innocent men, and of large almesse. In the ix., of the same. In the x., of cristen kny3thood, and of hise comparisouns to others. In the xi., of the greuousnesse of the gospel prechinge, and glorie of his kynrede, and ioie of tribulacioun a3ens false apostles. In the xij., of priuy[d] reuelacioun. In the xiij., of loue of soulis, and autorite of prelacie. Therfore in this myrrour of prelatis, the first chap. is departid into iiij. partis. In the first part, aftir the salutacioun, he doith thankingis to God the fadir, of the consolaciouns geuen to him and to hem. In the secunde part, he makith mynde of the disesis that he sufferide in Asie, and how he was delyuerid bi miracle, where he seith, Forsothe we wol, that 3e wite of oure tribulaciouns, etc. In the thridde, the cause of his tribulaciouns, that is to seie, the holyness of his conscience, where he seith, For whi oure glorie is this, the witnessynge of oure conscience. In the fourth, he excusith him, tellinge whi he turnede his purpos and his biheeste of comynge to the Corinthis, where he seith, And in that trist I wolde first come to 3ou.

GALATIANS.

[e] Galathies ben Grekis, and thou3 Grekis ben of sharp witt, 3it the Galathies weren foolis and slou3 to vndirstonde; for thei weren li3tli temptid of false apostlis to bicome Jewis, that is, to holde bodili circumsicioun and fleischli serymonyes, othir sacrifisis of Moises lawe; as false apostlis excitide Galathies to adde Moises lawe to the gospel, for thei affermide, that the feith of Crist withouten fleischli obseruauncis suffisith not to heelthe, and that Petir and James and othere apostlis, that weren with the Lord, medliden kepingis of the olde lawe with the gospel. Thei affermyde also, that Poul hymsilf dide othir thingis in Judee, and prechide other thing among hethene men; and with these thingis thei peruertide Galathies into fleischli kepinge of the lawe. Therfore the apostle wroot to hem, and a3enclepid hem to fredom of the gospel and cristen feith.

Here bigynneth anothir prologe to the Galathies[f].

Galathies ben Grekis, and thou3 thei ben of scharp wit, 3itt thei weren folis and slow3 to vndirstonde; for thei weren li3tli temptid of false apostlis to hold bodili circumcicioun and fleischli serimonies of Moises law with the gospel. For the false apostlis seiden, that Petir and James and othere apostlis, that were with the Lord, medliden kepingis of Moises lawe with the gospel. And also thei seiden, that the feith of Crist without fleischli obseruauncis suffisith not to heelthe of soule. Therfore the apostil wroot to hem, to fredom of the gospel, and cristen feith. And this epistil is departid into tweye principal partis. In the first principal part, he is aboute for to schewe that the feith of the gospel suffisith vnto heelth of lawful men; and this part therfor longith to the feith, and it lastith to the v. chap., there he seith, Crist delyueride vs, etc. And the secunde part, the which longith to maneris, lastith fro the forseid place vnto the eende of the epistil.

An othere prologe[a].

And thouȝ Grekis ben of scharp wit, netheles Galathis weren foolis and ful slow to vndurstonde. These Galathies token first of the postle the treuthe of feith and of techyng, but aftirward thei weren temptid of falsse apostlis to bicome Jewis, that is, to holde bodili circumsicioun and fleishli ceremonyes, ether sacrifices of Moises lawe. And false apostlis counceliden and excitiden Galathies in many maneris, to adde Moises lawe to the gospel; for thei affermyden, that the feith of Crist without fleishli obseruaunces sufficith not to heelthe, and that Petre and James and othere apostlis that weren with the Lord, medliden kepyngis of the lawe with the gospel. Thei affermyden also, that Poul him silf dide othere thing in Judee, and prechide othere thing among hethene men. Bi these thingis and othere siche, thei peruertiden Galathies, in so myche, that Galathies assentiden to hem, and passiden in to fleishli keping of the lawe. Therfor the postle aȝenclepith hem to the treuthe of cristen feith and of the gospels techyng, and writith to hem fro Effesus, of grace of the gospel; of which he hadde writen also to Romayns, that worshipiden the lawe in liyk maner. But to Romayns, as to wise men, Poul vsidc hiȝer wit, and deppere ether sotilier argumentis; and to these Galathies, as to lesse wise men, he vsith comyn word and esi. Also to these Galathies he seith, A! ȝe witles Galathies, to aȝenclepe hem so to treuthe. Therfor the entent of the postle in his pistle is, to brynge aȝen Galathies to religioun of feith and to treuthe of the gospel, whiche Galathies weren disseyued bi disseitis of false apostlis. The maner is sich. He biforsettith salutacioun, where he touchith shortli bothe of his dignyte and of the grace of Crist, aȝenus bacbiteris and hem that han glorie of workis of the lawe, and he comendith his persoone, whiche the false apostlis dispiseden. Aftir the salutacioun, he repreueth Galathies of vnstablenesse; aftirward he comendith largilier his owne persoone; aftirward he repreueth Moises lawe in many maneres, and seith it shal not be holdun aftir Crist, that is, aftir Cristis deth and pupplisching of the gospel; for not oneli it profitith not to riȝtfulnesse and helthe, but also it anoieth ether harmeth now. At the laste, he comendith the gospel and the feith of Crist, that it sufficith to heelthe.

An othere prologe.

The fynal conclusioun of the postle in this pistle is this, that bodili circumcisioun and othere sacrifices and obseruaunces of Moises lawe shulen not be kept with the feith of Crist, ȝhe, that tho ben avoided bi Crist, so that afterward tho ben cause of deeth ether of dampnacioun to her keperis. And he doith this, for Galathies, that weren conuertid bifor him, weren disseyued bi false apostlis, so that Galathies circumcididen hem silf, and kepten othere obseruaunces of Moises lawe. And this pistle is departid in to fyue partis bi fyue maneris, bi whiche he procedith to declare the forseid conclusion.

An othere prologe.

In the firste pistle, that is to Romayns, Poul tretith of power; in the laste pistle, that is, to Ebrews, he tretith of presthod and of hoolynesse; and in the myddil pistlis he tretith of wisdom, as in the twei pistlis to Corynthis and in this. And for errour is aȝenus[b] wisdom, in this pistle he tretith of errour, that is, to distrie errour. The mater of this pistle is parfit treuthe of cristen feith, with remouyng of cerymonyals of Moises lawe. The entent is so to reduce Galathies to the treuthe of the feith, and to teching of the gospel. Twei partis ben of this pistle. The first part is of treuthe of the gospel; the secounde part is of goodnesse of liyf. The pistle to Romayns is writen to myȝti men; the pistle to Ebrews is writen to the worshiperis of God; and alle the myddil pistlis ben writen to wise men, that is, to Grekis. Therfor in this pistle, in the firste chapitre, Poul comendith him silf and his cause, that is, his office and dignyte of apostle, and the treuthe and the fredom of the gospel. In the secounde chapitre he seith, hou for this cause he aȝenstood Petre. In the thridde chapitre he seith, hou the cerymonyes of Moises lawe shulden be expowned. In the fourthe chapitre, he expowneth bi allegorie. In the fyuethe chapitre, he spekith aȝenus vices. In the sixte chapitre, he spekith of merci, bodili and gostli

EPHESIANS.

[a] Effesies weren conuertid to[b] cristen feith bifore the comynge of the apostil, and he writith to hem comfortably, to strenkthe hem, and to excite hem to grettere vertues and excellent werkis. [And this epistil is departid into two principal partis. In the first part, he enfoormeth hem in the feith, what thingis and how grete thingis God dide to mankinde; also he schewith to hem, of whom and wherto thei ben clepid; forthermore he schewith to hem the dignyte and the prelacie of Crist. In the secunde part, he stirith hem to goode maneris, and speciali to haue charite ech with other, there he seith in the fourth chapiter, Therfore I biseche ȝou[c].]

PHILIPPIANS.

[d] These Filipensis tooken of the apostil the word of prechynge, and weren stidefast in feith[e], and thei resseyueden nott false apostlis; and therfore the apostil preisith hem[f]. Thei sende sum catel[g] to Poul bi Epafrodite to Rome, whom he sendith[h] aȝen with this pistil, in which pistil, sith he mai not be present bodili, he makith hem stronge aȝens double bateile, that is to seie, of false pursueris[i], and of fals prechouris [aȝens her soulis, that thei suffre alle aduersitees mekeli, for the loue of Crist, as Crist dide[k].]

COLOSSIANS.

[l] Poul wroot this pistil to Colocensis, to the whiche him silf prechide not, but hise disciplis Archippus and Epafras diden. Archippus hadde taken seruise on hem, but Epafras, that was born[m] of hem, and was tauȝt of apostil[n], confermede the techinge of Archippus; `therfore bi Archippus prechinge and Epafras confermynge his techynge, thei hadden lerid[o] the grace of Crist. But false apostlis camen, and enforside to peruerte hem, [and prechide fleischli obseruaunce of Moyses lawe. And the peple liȝtli hadden doute of her techinge; therfore Poul schewith to hem, that the feith of Crist and the gospel suffisith to heelthe of hem[p]. And this epistil is departid into tweie partis. In the first part, bi al the first chapitre he enformeth hem

I. THESSALONIANS.

[a] 'The apostil writith this to Tessalonisensis, that ben men of Macedonie[b]. Tessalonik is the cheef cite of Macedonie, which is a prouynce of Greekis. Tessalonisensis weren conuertid liȝtly of the apostil, and wolden not be moued fro truthe of feith, neither bi tribulacioun[c], ne bi fals prechouris. The[d] apostle preisith hem, for thei dwelliden parfiȝtly in grace taken, and weren encressid in vertues 'to encreessyng of meede[e]; for thei hadden so 'greet swetnes off spirit and so[f] tristi feith, 'that for[g] hope of thingis to comynge[h] thei[i] suffride 'with deuout soule[k] greete dispisyngis[l] and perels, for the name of Jhesu. Also[r] summe of hem weren fornycatouris. Therfore the[s] apostle 'amendith hem in this pistil, and monestith perfiȝt men[t] 'to ȝeue not[u] stide to aduersitees[v], 'ne to[w] false apostlis, 'and that thei amende othir men. These ben the laste pistlis, that the apostle writith to hethene men, for alle the epistlis suynge ben .....[x]

II. THESSALONIANS.

Here sueth anothir prologe to the Tessalonicensis[y].

This epistil, as the tother, is departid into tweie partis. In the first part he exciteth hem to take mekeli the passiouns, whiche now more thei suffre than thei dide bifore, or that he sent the first pistil. For whi bi siche passiouns ther gracis ben maad more. In the ii. part he enformeth hem of vertues. And these ben the last pistilis that the apostil writith to hethen men, for alle the epistlis suynge ben to persoones, that is, to Tymothe, and Tite, and Filemon.

I. TIMOTHY.

[z] Poul the apostil writith this epistil to Tymothe, the which Tymothe was the sone of a feithful womman, outher cristen womman, and he was geten of an hethene fadir. And whanne he was not circumsidid, and was hethene, britheren that weren at Listus and at Yconye ȝauen good witnessinge to him. Poul wolde haue this Tymothe to go with him self, and therfore he circumsidide him, for Jewis that weren in tho placis. And Tymothe was lerned bothe in dyuyne scripturis and liberal sciencis. Poul made this Tymothe a bischop, and therfore he monestith him, that he be bisi in ordynaunce of the chirche. Tymothe was bischop in Asie. The apostil writith of bischops office, that is, how he shal aȝenstonde false apostlis, how he schal teche the chirche, what maner preestis and dekenes he schal ordeyne, what maner widowis he schal honoure, how he schal haue him silf in the chirche.

Here bigynneth anothir prologe to the i. pistil to Tymothe[a].

The apostil writith fro Rome to Tymothe, whom he ordeinede and maad bischop in Asia. And it is his wille to infoorme in him what thingis perteyneth to the offis of a bischop. And this epistil is departid into tweie partis. In the first part he informeth in him to haue in hate the doctryne of fablis and genologies, that ben not of the lawe of God; and how a bischop owith to haue him to hem that ben without the chirche, that is to seie, how he schal aȝenstonde false apostils and fals prechouris. In the ii. part he infoormeth him, how he schal haue him to hem that ben in the chirch, and how he schal teche hem, and what maner prests and dekenes he schal ordeine, and what maner widows he schal honoure, and how he schal haue him silf in the chirche.

II. TIMOTHY.

[b] Poul that schulde passe out of this world, wroot this ij. pistil fro Rome, fro prisoun, to Tymothe, maad wery with sijknes and aduersitees. And that Tymothe schulde traueile faste in the grace that God hadde ȝeuen to him, and excitith him to martirdom bi manye maners, and that he contynue in the office of riȝtful prechinge and holi worchinge.

And here sueth another prologe on the ii. pistil to Tymothe[c].

Poul the ii. tyme, whanne he was representid to Nero, witing that he schulde passe out of this world, wroote in persoun this ii. pistil fro Rome to Tymothe, maad weri with siiknesse and aduersites, that he schulde traueile faste in the grace that God hadde geuen to him. And he excitith him to martirdom hi manie maners, and that he contynue in the offis of riȝtful prechinge and holi worchinge. And this pistil is departid into iii. principal [partis. In the i. principal[d]] part he moueth him to prechinge and pacience. In the ij. principal part he tellith to him of thingis that ben to come in the last daies, Perilous tymes schulen neiȝe, etc. In the thirde part he schewith him his departinge on his passioun beinge nyȝ, where he seith in the iiij. chap. thus, I witnesse bifore God, etc.

TITUS.

[e] Seint Poul ordeinede Tite erchebischop in Crete, and for Tite was ouer pacient, and meke, and necligent in correccioun of sugettis, therfore he monestith him to more steernes, and bisi execucioun and auctorite of his office. In this salutacioun ben markid iiij. thingis that a prelate profite, that is, holynesse of lijf, which is signified in the seruaunt of God. The ij. thing is truthe of techinge, which is signified in the knowing of feith; the thridde thing is abidynge of mede, the which is signyfied in hope of euerlastynge lijf; the iiij. thing is auctorite of offis, which is signyfied in the prechinge bita . . . . . Here byginneth an other prologe on the pistil to Tite[g].

Poul bigat Tite in the bileue of Crist, and he ordeynede him an erchebischop in Crete, the which is an yle or a kingdome. In the which he comaundith him to make honest bischopis. And it is the wille of him, how he owith to haue him to alle men. And for that Tite was ouer pacient and meke, and necgligent in correccioun of sugetis, therefore he monestith to more steernes, and bisi execusioun and autorite of his office. And this pistil is departid into thre partis. In the first part he techith how he owith to haue him as to his bischops. In the ii. part he techith how he schal haue him to lower partis of the chirche, and most to hem that were conuertid of circumsisioun. In the iij. part he techith him, how he schal haue him to hem the whiche ben withoute the chirche, and speciali to heretikis.

PHILEMON.

[g] The apostil writith this pistil to Filemon, a man of Colosis, that hadde no dignite of ministracioun in the chirche, but he was a worschipful man in the peple; to whom Poul sendith homeli lettris, for Onesimus his seruaunt, that fledde with sum harm of Filemon, for he bar awei of summe of thingis of Filemon, but he was cristened of the apostil, whanne he hadde herd the gospel, to whom the apostil bisechith forȝeuenes, and writith fro Rome fro prison to Filemon. The entent of the apostil is to biseche for Onesymus anentis Filemon. First the apostil salutith Filemon and his [wijf and[a]] his sone; aftirward [he[a]] doith thankingis [to God[a]] for the goodis of [britheren, and[a]] preisith the feith and [the pitee[a]] of hem; aftirward [he[a]] preieth Filemon, [that he[a]] spare Onesymus, [and that[a]] he thanke God, th[at he[a]] resseyuede Onesy-[mus as[a]] sich, and that he now gesse him not as a seruaunt, but a moost dereworthe brothir. The glose here. Crisostum seith, if Poul makith so greet bisynes for a seruaunt, for a theef, a fleer awei fro his maistir, it bicometh us to be bisi for siche; for Crist seith in the gospel of Mathew, v. c°. Blessid . . . . . [b]

Here byginnith another prologe to Filemon[c].

The entent of the apostle is, to biscche forȝeuenesse of Filemon to Onesymus, his seruaunt, that wente awei with summe thingis of Filemon, but aftir he was cristened of the apostil Poul, whanne he hadde herd the gospel, he was recounsilid. Therefore Poul writith to Filemon, and preieth him, that he forȝeue Onesymus, and that he thanke God that he resceyuede him siche; and that he now gesse him not a seruaunt, but a most derworthe brothir. And in this pistil ben thre partis, aftir the salutacioun. In the first part is doinge of thankingis to God, for the feith and the pitee that Filemon hadde among britheren. In the ij. part is bisechinge, and tellinge of the dede and the conuersacioun of Onesymus, there he seith, For that thing, etc. In the iij. part is of his obedience, and of the harboringe of Poul, and of the salutaciouns of britheren.

HEBREWS.

[d] Poul wroot this epistil more cleerli or exelently than othere pistlis; for ech man is moost expert outhir moost redi in his owne langage. Wherfore as Ebrew langage is formere than othere, as Isodre seith in the firste book of Ethimologies, so this pistil to Ebrewis, that was last writen, is the firste in ordre of techinge. For in this pistil is schewid the vnperfeccioun of Moises lawe, and the perfeccioun of the gospel; and so the ceessynge of cerymonies of Moises lawe is schewid aȝens the opynyoun of Jewis conuertid. Thre thingis ben in the lawe of God. The i. thing is the feith of God, for a lawe is not ȝouen, no but to a peple, which is men gaderid togidere; and the first preisable gaderynge is the feith; the ij. is the truthe reul-ynge, ȝeuen of the auctour of lawe; and the thridde thinge is the eende of the lawe. Oure auctour is God, and the eende is the blis of heuene.

Here sueth another prologe to Ebrews[e].

The apostil wroote to Ebrews this pistil in Ebrew tunge. And the entent of the apostil is to enfoorme and stir the conuertid of the Jewis al oonli to the feith of Crist, and to drawe awey hem fro the obseruauncis and serymonyes of the olde lawe. For in this pistil is schewid the vnperfeccioun of Moises lawe, and the perfeccioun of the gospel; and so the ceessynge of serymonies of the olde lawe is schewid aȝens the opinyoun of Jewis conuertid. And this pistil is departid into foure principal partis. In the first he schewith Crist to be the mooste worthi creature of alle creaturis, and therefore in him is moost to be trowid; and this part lastith to the byginnynge of the vii. chap., there he seith, Forsothe this Melchesedech, etc. In the first chapitre ben ij. partis. In the first part forsothe he comendith Crist ouer alle prophetis and ouer alle men, and to be bigeten fro the bigynnynge, aȝens the Jewis that seiden, We witen that God spak to Moises, but we knowen not this, of whens he is. In the ij. part he schewith him to be more worthi than ony resonable creaturis, that is to seie, aungels or oonli man, bi manye resouns, there he seith, So miche he is bettere than aungels. In the ii. principal part he proueth the preesthood of Crist to be bettere and worthiere than the preesthood of the Leuytis, or of the olde lawe. And this part lastith to the enleuenthe chapiter, there he seith, But feith is the substaunce of thingis to be trowid. In the third principal part he comendith the feith, bi the which is maad cominge to Crist, and that bi alle the xi. chapitre. In the fourth principal part he spekith of the goostli vndirstondinge, fro the xij. chapitre to the eende of the epistil.

DEEDS OF APOSTLES.

[a] The principal conclusioun of the Deedis of Apostlis is this, that cristen feith entrid into the world bi miracle, `and grace of the Holi Goost[b], and not bi mannes wijsdom, and aftirward strenkthide and multipliede bi the same Holi Goost. [And this book is diuided generali into twei partis. In the first part is maad minde of tho thingis that ben comyne to alle the apostlis, and this part lastith to the fourth chapitre. In the ii. part is maad mynde of the propir deedis of Petir and of Poul[c].]

JAMES.

Here followeth another prologe after St. Jeroms, on the pistils of cristen feith, whiche ben seuene in ordre[d].

We reden that whanne Seynt Steuene was slayn, there was maad greet persecucioun in the chirche at Jerusalem; and alle, outaken the apostilis, weren scaterid bi the cuntrees of Juda and of Samarie. Therfore James the lasse, brothir of Judas, the apostil, and the sone of Alphei, that was bischop of Jerusalem, sente this pistil to hem that weren scaterid of the chirche, and suffride persecucioun for riȝtwiisnesse, enfoormynge hem in vertues generaly as to ech astaat. And this pistil is departid into thre partis. In the first part he techith the concupicens of the fleish, that is to saie, worldli wiisdom to be fled, in that that he stirith hem to haue ioie in temptaciouns, in whiche the fleish is turmented; and this in the first chapitre. In the ii. part he techith pride of liif to be fled; and that in the ii. chapiter and iii. chapiter. But in the ii. chapiter he schewith how it is to be fled in other persoones, bi accepcioun or worschipinge of hem. In the thridde chapiter he techith, pride and worschipe of the peple to be fled in a mannes own silf, the which ofte tymes cometh of maisterschipe. In the thridde part he techith richessis of this world to be dispised; and that in the fourth and in the fifthe chapiter. In the iiii. chapiter, as to the wille of hauynge of hem. But in the fifth chapiter, as to the holdynge of hem. And thus is maad open the dyuydynge of this pistil.

I. PETER.

Here bigynneth a prologe on the first pistil of Petir[a].

In this first pistil Petir tretith of moral vertues, that is, of vertues of soule, that maken a man worthi to be saued. And this he doith bi dyuersite of statis and persoones. First he comfortith hem that ben in tribulacioun, and nameli hethene men newe conuertid to cristen feith, and pursued therefore, and exiled of her owne lond. The secunde tyme he techith cristen men to be suget to kyngis and dukis and to ech man for God, and seruauntis to be suget to her lordis; and techith men to suffre pacientli wrongis at ensaumple of Crist. The thridde tyme he techith wyues to be suget to her husbondis, and araye hem in vertues, and not in preeious clothis, ne with gold, ne peerlis; and that husbondis honour her wyues, as euene eiris of grace, and that alle men be meke, and stidfast in feith and vertues, and ȝilde not yuel for yuel, but good aȝens yuel, bi ensaumple of Crist. The fourthe tyme, that men be armed with thouȝt of Cristis passioun, and haue feith in charite, and vse hospitalitie and other vertues, and dispose hem to speke wiseli Goddis wordis. The fifthe tyme he techith preestis to do weel her offis, and that ȝonge men be suget to eldre men mekeli in alle good doyngis, and that alle men he meke and sobre, and wake aȝens the deuel, and aȝenstonde him strongli in feith. This tellith apostillis here to men that of cristen lawe in the bigynninge of the chirche weren exilid fro her own euntre and placis. Therfore Petir comfortith hem in this pistil, and he wroot fro Rome, in the tyme of Claudius the emperour.

II. PETER.

A prologe on the secunde pistil of Petir[b].

In this seeunde pistil, first Petir tellith the giftis and the biheestis of God, that men fle synne, and be stidefast in feith and vertues, and the exelence of Cristis techinge. The secunde tyme he tellith as false prophetis weren in the peple, so and false maistris schulen be in sectis of perdieioun; [and he[c]] discreueth the condieioun of these maistris with her sectis, and tellith also the greete peynis of hem that turnen aȝen to her synnes. The thridde tyme he tellith of disceiuers that schulen .eome in the laste tymes, and lyue in lustis, and neither bileeue ne triste Crist to the doom to eomynge. And with this he tellith how cristen men schulden make hem redi with holi conuersacioun aȝens the doom.

I. JOHN.

A prolog on the j. pistil of Joon[d].

Seynt Joon the euangelist hadde a speeial loue to the noumbre of thre, for the misterie of the[e] Holi Trynite. And as he made thre bookis, that is, the gospel, the apocalips, and these pistlis, so he departith[f] these pistlis into thre; for[g] kyndeli we han wey to go forth fro comynere thingis to thingis[h] lesse comin. Therfore the firste pistil enfoormeth alle cristen[i] men general[k]; and the secunde pistil enfoormeth speciali a synguler meyne; and the thridde pistil enfoormeth a singeler persoone.

[a] This prologue is from y. In Ms. p there is no prologue. [b] This prologue is from y. The same prologue was written in p, but is now so mutilated that only some portions of lines remain. [c] Omitted in y. [d] This prologue is from p, collated with y, in which last Ms. it has the following rubric, Here bigynneth a prologe on the first pistil of Joon. [e] Om. y. [f] departid y. [g] and for y. [h] Om. y. [i] Om. y. [k] generali y.

JUDE.

Here bigynneth a prolog on the pistil of Jude[h].

Judas the brothir of James, the which also is clepid Taddee, writith a3ens distroiers of feith, as Petir and Joon dide . . . . . .[i]

APOCALYPSE.

Anothir prologe[k].

This is a prolog sett comynli in manie biblis, and clerkis expownen this, thou3 it be not the prolog of Jerom, but of another expositour[l]. Also[m] whanne Joon was distitute of al mannes speche and help, he was enspired of God. Bi this was[n] schewid to us, that in as miche as we goon awei more fro this ertheli voise, bi so miche we ben deemed more able to Goddis visitacioun. Joon knew bi Goddis reuelacioun, that dyuers statis of the chirche schulden suffre manye thingis for the name of Crist; and that thei my3te the more esily suffre, he warneth hem bifore bi schewinge of the Holi Goost; and al this is do, to comende pacience, that who that suffrith pacientli, haue reward of blis, bothe of[o] bodi and soule. And Austyn seith to ech cristen man, If thou forsakist[p] to suffre hatrede for[q] Crist, thou forsakist to be a membre of Crist.

[h] This prologue is from p. There is no additional prologue in y. [i] The rest is wanting in the Ms. [k] This prologue is from p, collated with y. [l] expositour. And here bigynneth another prologe of other doctouris. This and what precedes is rubricated in y. [m] Om. y. [n] it is y. [o] in y. [p] forsake y. [q] of the world, with the heed, that is y.
